

Introduction

This fourth edition of the World Female Imprisonment List shows the number of women and girls held in penal institutions in 221 prison systems in independent countries and dependent territories. The figures include both pre-trial detainees/remand prisoners and those who have been convicted and sentenced. The List also shows the percentage of women and girls within each national prison population and the number of imprisoned women and girls per 100,000 of the national population (the female prison population rate). The information is the latest available at the end of September 2017. In addition, this edition includes information about trends in female prison population levels since about 2000.

Both the World Female Imprisonment List and the World Prison Population List (the eleventh edition of which was published in 2016) complement the information held in the World Prison Brief online database at www.prisonstudies.org. The World Prison Brief is updated monthly.

The World Female Imprisonment List is compiled, like the World Prison Population List, from a variety of sources. In almost all cases the original source is the national prison administration of the country concerned or the Ministry responsible for the prison administration. Most of the figures are recent and efforts are continually made to update them and to obtain information on the number of female prisoners in the few countries on which figures are not currently available (Cuba, Eritrea, North Korea, Somalia and Uzbekistan). We welcome the assistance of readers in notifying us of the latest figures. Care has been taken to ensure that the List is as accurate as possible but we cannot guarantee the reliability of every figure and readers are also invited to draw attention to any errors they notice and, if possible, to supply corrections.

It is hoped that this edition of the World Female Imprisonment List will be useful for policy makers, prison administrators, academic criminologists, non-governmental organisations, other criminal justice experts and everyone who is interested in the extent of female imprisonment.

Key points

- ▶ This report shows that more than 714,000 women and girls are held in penal institutions throughout the world, either as pre-trial detainees/remand prisoners or having been convicted and sentenced. Figures for five countries are not available and those for China are incomplete. The full total is therefore higher still.
- ▶ More than 200,000 female prisoners are in the United States of America (about 211,870). The countries with the next highest totals are China (107,131 plus an unknown number of women and girls in pre-trial detention and 'administrative detention'), the Russian Federation (48,478), Brazil (about 44,700), Thailand (41,119), India (17,834), Philippines (12,658), Vietnam (11,644), Indonesia (11,465), Mexico (10,832), Myanmar (9,807) and Turkey (9,708). The female prison population levels in Brazil, Indonesia, Philippines and Turkey have risen sharply in the two years since the previous edition of this List was published; by contrast, they have fallen substantially in Mexico, the Russian Federation, Thailand and Vietnam.
- ▶ In around four-fifths of prison systems female prisoners constitute between 2 and 9% of the total prison population. Just nineteen systems have a higher percentage than that. The jurisdictions with the highest proportions are Hong Kong-China (20.8%), Laos (18.3%), Macau-China (15.4%), Qatar (14.7%), Kuwait (13.8%), Thailand (13.3%), Myanmar (12.3%), United Arab Emirates (11.7%) and South Sudan (10.9%) (excluding three very small jurisdictions*).
- ▶ Women and girls make up 6.9% of the global prison population. In African countries the proportion of women and girls in the total prison population, at 3.4%, is much lower than elsewhere. In the Americas women and girls make up 8.4% of the total prison population (6.3% if the US figures are excluded), in Asia 6.7%, in Europe 6.1% (5.1% excluding Russia) and in Oceania 7.4%.
- ▶ There are also considerable variations between countries, regions and continents in the proportion of the national population that female prisoners constitute – best expressed for comparison purposes as the female prison population rate per 100,000 of the national population. The lowest levels are again in Africa where the overall rate per 100,000 of the national population is 3.2. In Asia the rate is 6.2, in Oceania 11.3, in Europe 12.1 (7.7 excluding Russia) and in the Americas 31.4 (14.6 excluding the U.S.A.).
- ▶ The highest female prison population rates are in the U.S.A. (about 65.7 per 100,000 of the national population), Thailand (60.7), El Salvador (58.4), Turkmenistan (about 38.2), Seychelles (34.8), Russian Federation (33.5), French Guiana (32.4), Macau-China (31.3), Rwanda (29.6), Greenland (28.5) and American Samoa (27.3).
- ▶ The number of women and girls in prison worldwide has increased by some 53% since about 2000, when the total was estimated as approximately 466,000. This rise cannot be explained in terms of global population growth (United Nations figures indicate that the global population rose only by 21% between mid-2000 and mid-2016) or growth in the total number of prisoners (the worldwide male prison population has increased by around 20% since 2000).
- ▶ The female prison population has risen in all continents since 2000. In Africa the rise has been somewhat less than the increase in the general population of the continent and in Europe the increase in prisoner numbers has been similar to the general population increase. By contrast, rises in the female prison population in the Americas, in Asia and in Oceania have been respectively about three, four and five times the increases in the general population of those continents.
- ▶ The number of women and girls in prison has risen particularly sharply in some countries: notably in central America – Guatemala (now more than five times the level at 2001) and El Salvador (now ten times the level at 2000); in south America – Brazil (four and a half times the 2000 level); and in south-eastern Asia – Cambodia and Indonesia (both more than six times the level at 2000).
- ▶ Comparison of the latest figures with those that were available two years ago suggests that the worldwide female prison population may still be increasing at a faster rate than the worldwide male prison population. Two years ago the increases since 2000 were about 50.2% for female prisoners and 18.1% for male prisoners; they are now about 53.3% and 19.6% respectively.
